

The North Carolina Information Highway (NCIH) is a video-conferencing technology that enables interactive multi-campus instruction to occur in real-time and enhances the partnerships and instructional agreements with other colleges. The Funeral Service Education (FSE) program, as the only approved FSE program in the State of North Carolina, actively uses this technology to reach students who could not otherwise complete their program of study. The College has five fully operational NCIH classrooms which adequately support the needs of faculty, staff and students.
